Forgotten Victory: First Canadian Army And The Cruel Winter Of 1944-45 (Canadian Battle Series)

Synopsis

During the winter of 1944–45 the Allies desperately sought a strategy for Germanyâ€™s quick defeat. From the Swiss border to the North Sea, hundreds of thousands of soldiers in trenches and dugouts suffered through the bitterest European winter in 50 years, while their generals debated and schemed in the war rooms. In this grim environment, First Canadian Army engaged in deadly patrols behind the German lines and fought costly skirmishes to gain control of small patches of contested ground. After much debate, the Allied high command decided that First Canadian Army would launch the pivotal offensive to win the war — an attack against the Rhineland. Winning this land would give them a launching point for driving into Germanyâ€™s heartland. On February 8, 1945, First Canadian Army launched Operation Veritable. Advancing on the heels of the greatest artillery bombardment yet fired by the western Allies, thousands of Canadian and British troops advanced into an inferno of battle. Infantrymen were forced to fight relentlessly, alone and often at close quarters, for 38 grueling days. Their story is one largely lost to the common national history of World War II — Forgotten Victory gives this important legacy back to Canadians.

Mark Zuehlke has done another masterful, well-researched and written book on the Unknown Battles of the Canadian 1st Army for The Mass-Wahl and Reichswald Forest from December 1944-March 1945! Publishers, Authors and Historians are finally starting to realize that Readers are "somewhat bored" with Thousands of Books on D-Day, Arnhem, The 1st 10 Days of The Battle of

The Bulge and Remagen and want to read about The Bloodiest Battle of the Western Front in World War II-The Rhineland. The U.S Army, alone, took 240,000 Battle Casualties from September 15, 1944 to March 21, 1945 or 3 times as many Battle Casualties as The Battle of The Bulge with 81,000 Battle Casualties 2 1/2 times as many Battle Casualties 105,000 Battle Casualties for the Ardennes-Alsace Campaign if you include the Unknown Battle of the Saar, Siegfried Line and Upper Rhine in Northern Alsace where the U.S 7th Army had 21,000 Battle Casualties in the Siegfried Line and Operation Nordwind alone from December 16, 1944 to January 25, 1945 and 70,000 Battle Casualties in Northeastern France from September 1944 to March 1945 and the U.S 6th Army Group sustained 110,000 Battle Casualties in The Rhineland Campaign in Alsace.
