Customer Reviews

For those who love The Chew and Daphne, this book is a great addition to your cooking library. The recipes are straightforward with plenty of pictures, and as always, written in a fun and entertaining manner to enjoy. Daphne always does a nice job of writing books based on personal experiences in her life. This book reflects that, with kids around, she is trying recipes that feel like you are out at the restaurant but while still at home. The recipes are not extreme (it does not cut out all of the sugar, oils, salt and butter) and not intimidating: simply, they look fun to try and will result in satisfying dishes. In all, this is a great book for any Chew fan, and a super addition to your cooking library

I remember Daphne from her 'The Dorm Room Diet' books which brought so much food sense to a huge group struggling with many aspects of life and needing help on nutrition. The amazing and positive influence both her parents had on her is now something we also benefit from, twinned with Daphne's passion with food. This book is full of excellent recipes to turn to along with clear colourful mouthwatering photos, as we eat with our eyes. Well done; Daphne literally loves food and her enthusiasm is contagious. <https://amzn.com/B01FEDVCKE>
