This is the newest Destination Billionaire Romance by Gelato Publishing. I love this series because each includes a cute, clean romance that you don't want to put down. This one was really fun for me because Ty and his family live in a cute little town that I enjoyed visiting during my high school years. I liked Ty. He's the billionaire, he recently won the lottery and decided to start his own foundation to remove tons of land from government control and move it to the control of individual states. He's asked to do interviews on several shows, but after the first, he knows he needs help. It was terrible. That's where Holland comes in. She's an image consultant working in L.A. She enjoys her job, but her life isn't all roses. She's still living with her parents and the guy she likes has just left for the rest of the summer and there's really no commitment between the two of them. I loved the way she takes Ty under her wing and makes herself indispensable enough that he takes her to his hometown in Idaho to help with his foundation. This book has a plot filled with mayhem, someone is out to get Ty, his foundation or both and he doesn't want his family or Holland around when he's being attacked. The book kept me guessing until the very end. I loved the romance aspect as well. This was a cute book! I bought a copy of this book from .com.

I really enjoy all of the Billionaire series! This story was no exception. I loved the characters and the premise, I just wish it could have played out longer. It felt like a short story and it ended too soon. A good, clean love story.

When Holland Morrissey was chosen to do an makeover for the billionaire Grant Epperson she knew she had her work cut out for her. He arrived with his pregnant sister Missy from Idaho, and he was the winner of a billion dollars in a lottery. She told him what needed to be done and he needed a new wardrobe, he was into cowboy boots and torn worn out jeans. The next day when he appeared he was clean shaven without that ratty bushy beard, he was a handsome man. You will enjoy to read how he balked at paying $500.00 and $750.00 for a sport coat he still did not believe in wasting money. A lot of adventure going on in the story.

This series is so fun! My favorite thing about this one is how believably down to earth the main character was. I like to think that someone whose life changes overnight from winning the lottery would maintain his personal integrity, and I really liked this character for that. Their romance played in my head like a Hallmark Channel movie. :) I liked it.

What would you do if you won a billion dollars in a lottery? I think I would be quite similar to Ty, the Idaho sheep farmer. He's a humble man and doesn't want to end up bankrupt, so he spends it sparingly. When he goes to LA to do some interviews for a new foundation he's starting, he quickly realizes that he's a fish out of water and needs some help to vamp up his image and hires Holland as his consultant. She's good at her job and is willing to follow Ty back to Idaho to help get his foundation off the ground. I really like it when a character doesn't fit the typical mold. Ty isn't what you would imagine a billionaire bachelor to be and Holland isn't an average LA yuppie. They both have a lot of molding to go through and insecurities to deal with and I love watching them emerge into who they truly are. I would have loved to see them and their relationship developed a bit more, but it's hard to do in a shorter story (around 100 pages). I always enjoy a suspense angle and this book has a great one, but once again, I wish it could have been built up just a little more. I liked the references, descriptions, and history regarding the town of Hailey, ID, as it brings a good dimension to the book. A fun supporting cast rounds out an enjoyable addition to the Destination Billionaire Romance series. Content: mild romance (brief mention of adultery, mild kissing). Clean! I received a copy from the author in exchange for an honest review

I liked it! I've read a couple of this series and liked them quite a bit. I loved the lottery spin! It was kind of hard for me to relate to his cause because I don't know anything about it. I liked learning about the land thing.

When Ty Epperson wins the lottery, he wants to use the money for a good purpose. He starts a foundation devoted to land management. As he tries to promote the foundation, he finds himself ill-equipped to deal with the media. He hires Holland Morrissey to help him. As Ty and Holland work to set up the foundation, it's apparent that someone doesn't want them to succeed. I enjoyed this book so much! Ty is just the sweetest, most humble guy, and a true gentleman. His insecurities did lead him to be a bit dense when it came to love, and I wanted to sit him down and talk some sense into him! Holland helped Ty so much, with more than just the media. I loved the scene at the skate park!! The bit of suspense was good, and had a great wrap up! And I have to say that I loved Misty! She made me smile so many times. This is a quick, light read. It was a great book to curl up and relax with! I really enjoyed it! This is the first book in the Destination Billionaire series that I've read. I'm looking forward to reading more! I was given a copy of the book in exchange for an honest review.
