Whisperings From Death Row

Synopsis

Poems and recollections of a life imprisoned.I was only a child, ten years of age, when I was first incarcerated in the juvenile prison system. Locked up in a small brick cage with a solid wood door containing a thick, shatterproof glass window.So began the journey that would lead me here â “ to DEATH ROW.Iâ ™m simply just Herminio Serna now, who was â œconsciously awakenedâ • to this living nightmare of awaiting execution, here on Californiaâ ™s Death Row, in San Quentin State Prison.Incarcerated since August 1991. Condemned to this death in November 1997 after a six year trial.Held in isolation, solitary confinement, while undergoing that sham appearance of a trial. And once condemned I was buried alive here, in a concrete cage, entombed inside the entrails of this beast, inside the infamous Adjustment Center, (San Quentinâ ™s â œHoleâ •/S.H.U.) for another fourteen years.A total of 20 years â “ two decades of â œunusual cruelty.â • As if the death penalty wasnâ ™t enough of a punishment!
