THE WORK OF REFERENCE THAT EVERY COMMERCIAL CONSTRUCTION LAWYER SHOULD HAVE â “NOW IN A NEW FIFTH EDITION COMPLETE WITH LINKED DOWNLOADSAn appreciation by Phillip Taylor MBE and Elizabeth Taylor of Richmond Green ChambersThe truism that delays waste time and time costs money -- is almost monumentally pertinent to the construction industry which, by its very nature, involves massive expenditure with the requirement of massive capital investment.Delay and disruption, however, are the two factors that seem to occur in the construction industry more often than they are avoided â “ hence the pressing need on the part of all practitioners at the Construction Bar for the latest edition of this indispensable text published recently by Informa from Routledge as part of their Construction Practice series.â ^Delay,â ™ says the expert and erudite author Andrew Burr, â ^happens in all industries ,jurisdictions and cultures,â ™ adding that when time has not been managed effectively, the consequences can be devastating for all participants in a project large or small, from employers and consultants to contractors and suppliers.One of the more spectacular examples cited is that of the Scottish Parliament building which incurred prolongations costs of Ã Â£150 million â “ a sum which, as Burr points out, â ^could have funded a fully equipped general hospital.â ™ Other projects like the Shard had their problems too.Fortunately there are legal processes aimed either at settling the complex legal disputes that almost inevitably result from delays, or preventing such delays from happening in the first place.
