The Lesbian Sex Haiku Book (with Cats!)

Synopsis

Lesbian sex has been confounding people since the dawn of time. What is it that two women do together exactly? The Lesbian Sex Haiku Book (with Cats!) is a humorous guide to lesbian sex, dating rituals, and relationships, and aims to dispel all myths. Haiku paired with hilarious watercolor illustrations of cats in various stages of sexual awkwardness will enlighten, demystify, remystify, and most importantly entertain as you learn about all the aspects involved in girl-on-girl action. From lesbian pick-up lines: Pronounce Annie Proulx's name correctly • watch lady's cargo pants fall off. To icebreaker haiku for first dates: It has been MANY years, but I'm not done griping about The L Word. To, of course, the mechanics of lesbian sex: It's like straight sex but afterwards we ask ourselves, "We just had sex, right?" Lesbian sex is like water polo • no one really knows the rules. This laugh-out-loud book is the perfect gift to amuse and educate your friends, loved ones, and lovers.

This book poses a question I have long pondered: why were haikus invented? Anna Pulley provides the obvious answer: •to give our short-form brains something to do when we aren't photographing dogs wearing leggings. •More directly, Ms. Pulley states her aims: •to dispel myths, to enlighten, to demystify, to remystify, to gently chide, and to perplex your parents •There's something for everyone here. If you're only looking for awkward lesbian propositions of vampires, werewolves, or Bigfoot, it's a must-read. And other propositions too;

my very favorite: âœGertrude Stein gets to second base.â •Not to mention outings with Virginia Woolf and Willa Cather. And for you politicos out there: âœHIPSTER APPROPRIATION OF LESBIAN CULTURE: A MANIFESTO IN FIVE HAIKUâ • will get you writing those letters to the editor. As an aging, privileged, white male, Iâ™m blissfully clueless on references to lesbian sex culture, but this book can be enjoyed on so many levels by anyone who loves language and humor, and of course, eerily beautiful and deeply subversive cat illustrations. It even inspired my own humble effort, sadly without cats: I own many books, But none like this one; a void Iâ™ve now corrected.

This book is the perfect icebreaker for every occasion. "Welcome to my home! Would you care to enjoy some lesbian haiku and gay cat illustration while I get you a refreshment?" In all seriousness, this book is amazing. What seems like a one-time humor read/cat illustration perusal is actually a well written poignant, and often heartfelt collection of insights into the mystery of relationships and love between women with a very healthy dose of laughter and of course, CATS! The cat illustration is insane. Who knew Jennifer Tilly and Gina Gershon would look so good and accurate as felines? This definitely not just a one-time read book. I am positive that everyone will be able to enjoy it many times over and ALSO enjoy using it as that icebreaker I mentioned earlier. We should probably make a signature drink for the reading... any suggestions? Thanks Anna & Kelsey for a highly entertaining, educational, and heart warming book!

I showed my copy of this book to my sister as she was on her way out the door last week before going to put my baby to bed. An hour later, long after I thought she had left my house, I realized that she was still in my living room reading as fast as she possibly could. The next day I got a text begging me to let her borrow the book. She was in haiku withdrawal, and with this book it is easy to see why: it's laugh-out-loud funny, poignant, and totally relate-able even for those who aren't lesbians or cats. It also has the distinction of being the first book where I have ever (happily) read the entire introduction. The only thing I would like more than this book are poster sized copies of the illustrations.

I've been a fan of Anna Pulley's writing for a long time. She writes with honesty, poignancy, and humor-- yes poignancy, even in a haiku book about lesbian sex. This book will hilariously entertain you and leave you feeling surprisingly enlightened. And the illustrations are fantastic. Beyer and Pulley clearly make an amazing team. All the stars!

There are at least four ways to read this lovely book:1. Wham-bam-thank you ma'am, all in one delightful, furious sitting that you don't want to end so you exhaust its pages one after another until they are entirely spent.2. Savoring it all night long, reading each haiku again and again until each one is fully crystallized in your mind and you can recite it over and over again before moving to the next one and doing it all over again.3. Checking it out in the store, bringing it home to your shelf without having the courage to read it, every so often gazing at it longingly and getting up the courage to pick it up, until one day you have a few drinks and then whip open it up and read it until you pass out, only to wake up the next morning having forgotten what you read. Repeat as needed.4. Proclaiming it to the people, preferably by yelling the haiku from the top of a building, tearing each page out of the book as you read it and letting it drop to the teeming masses so they can view the lovely illustrations, thus ensuring that each reading will require an additional purchase of a new copy, keeping it in print for perpetuity.Seriously, get this book. Pulley's haiku are light, witty, and breezy, as full of delightful cultural references as morsels of insightful satire. Beyer's illustrations are a pleasant collision of adorable and a "so wrong it's great" vibe that gifts the reader images of well-fed felines body-hugging bottles of MGD and a Hitachi Magic Wand.It's smart, funny, and hot. What more are you looking for in a book?

Quite clearly the most superior lesbian-themed haiku collection on the market today. With cats! Oddly mesmerizing, lesbian cats!This little gem celebrates the strange beautiful reality of today's young modern queer woman with such witty endearment, it makes her want to call herself a lesbian again! And get together with all the lesbians she knows and have tea and dramatic readings!
