A Book Of Bad Jokes, Pitiful Puns, Woeful Wordplay And Ridiculous Riddles

Synopsis

Hundreds of jokes congregate in this amazing compilation of some of the greatest bad jokes and puns there are. Uniting several forms of terrible gag in one ceaseless, relentless volume, A Book of Bad Jokes, Pitiful Puns, Woeful Wordplay and Ridiculous Riddles is intended to be a text that every aspiring or current bad joke teller would love in his library. Authored by known pun and bun master Hugh Jass, this manual intends to amuse and educate its readers on the art of inventing truly awful humor. Ample quantities of ideas and an exhaustive demonstration of the form used mean that you can not only cringe, but create your own horrific jokes. After introducing the book and its uses, Hugh takes us through an enormous combination of terrible one-liners and question and answer jokes. The conclusion of the book meanwhile is framed in riddles both ordinary and poetic in form. Despite the all-round awfulness of what's shown, the author is keen to point out the utility of what's here. The demonstrative use of wordplay is ample, meaning that readers can start to pick up and assimilate the technique. After having absorbed the hundreds of silly gags present, you may even start to invent your own! A superb little gift or stocking filler at Christmas, this abysmal compilation is sure to keep you and your loved ones cringing for hours!

A funny book this - I bought it as a birthday gift for a young relative and leafed through before wrapping it up. Said relation was laughing out loud at the silly author page and introduction, and (to my shame) so was I. The jokes and puns inside are awful - some are simply plain bad, while others are 'so bad they're good'. A number of them need a few seconds of thought to get, and some have brackets to help readers understand the wordplay. The concluding parts have some riddles in, and some of these are actually quite clever. Overall I recommend this book given the low price tag. Here are a few examples of what's inside for the sake of giving people considering making a purchase: "Why can a fish never be in the dark? Because of his paraffins." "What is that which never asks questions, yet requires many answers? A door-knocker." "Why is your considering yourself handsome like a chicken? Because itâ™s a matter of a-pinion!"
